EXPECTS TRUTH OF U. S. PRESS

Germany Grateful for Fair Play, Berlin Editor Says.

In addition to the replies recently published in the Missourian to inquiries sent to leading journalists in foreign countries to determine what the world is thinking of the American press, the following has been received from H. von Kupffer, editor of the Lokal-Anzeiger of Berlin, Germany:

"You have kindly honored me with the request of sending you a message to the conference of journalists, in reply to the question: 'How may the press of the United States best be of service to world-journalism, and through journalism, to the peoples of the world?' Permit me to answer this question in a very short and concise manner: I think that rights and duties of the press are the same all over the world. Hence its ways and means to exercise a beneficial influence—if only by setting an example—or to do mischief, must likewise be the same everywhere. I cannot think of any advice fitting the American press in particular.

"Let us say, therefore, that the press, that journalism in general, can best be of service to the world by strict justice, impartiality (national party-politics excluded) and truthfulness. If you will allow me to add a special wish from a German point of view with regard to the press of the United States, it is this: We desire and expect truth, and nothing but the truth. Wherever we have experienced it on the part of your great country's papers, we have acknowledged it gratefully.

BERRIES PLENTIFUL ON LOCAL MARKET

No Danger of Lack of Short-cake and Pie—Grape-Fruit Is Scarce.

Strawberry shortcake, gooseberry pie—these are the two delicacies that no careful housewife can afford to leave off her Commencement Week menus if she wishes to be called "a royal hostess." And she need not fear for the strawberries or the gooseberries, either. For they are here, plenty of them, and only awaiting a chance to be sandwiched between soft, spongy layers of cake or inclosed within rich, flaky walls of pie-crust.

Grapefruit is just about out of the market at present—awfully hard to get, say the grocers—and consequently, high in price. But an over-abundance of home-grown strawberries with a fresh Boone County look about them and a large supply of the Cuban pineapples are ready to take the place of the scarce grapefruit. The prices for this week are:

Grocers Cut Free Lists.

By United Press.
SPOKANE, Wash., June 1.—No more free cigars, candy or oranges for Spokane folks who pay their grocery bills. Almost unanimously the members of the Spokane Retail Grocers' and Butchers' Association have decided to discontinue handing out little treats as a reward to customers who pay their bills each Saturday night. It was agreed that this practice in effect showed preference to patrons who ran up bills rather than to those who paid cash for each purchase.

WOULD REFORM POSTAL SERVICE

R. H. Dana Outlines Plan Before Federated Women's Clubs.

By United Press.
NEW YORK, June 1.—An appeal to two million American clubwomen to help take the Postoffice Department out of politics was made by the civil service reform leader, Richard Henry Dana of Boston, before yesterday's session of the Federated Women's Clubs National Convention here today.

Dana declared the political appointment system has made the United States postal service the poorest and most inefficient in the world.

The remedy Dana suggested was to put every postal service job, from the four assistant postmaster-generalships down to the lowliest carrier of a rural route, on a competitive examination basis under strict civil service rules.

The speaker asserted that more than 90 per cent of all postmaster-ships paying $1,000 a year or more are changed with every national administration and that appointees to the big assistants' jobs in Washington sometimes are changed twice in an administration.

Dana condemned "the vast majority of postoffice appointees" as being "either politicians or broken-down failures in business whom some politician desires to foist upon the United States for support and who almost never know or learn anything about the intricacies of the postal service."

The speaker declared the recent order that all postmasters devote all their time to the postoffice service will only "make their postoffices a political headquarters." He pointed out that we have had fifteen postmaster generals in the last thirty years and suggested a long-term appointment. He suggested the division of the country into postal districts, with a division superintendent for each one.

In praising the railway mail service, Dana said it was efficient only because it has been under civil service for years. In concluding, the speaker declared that, although our postal service is sixty years behind that of other countries, bills now in congress for its reform are ignored because the people do not rise up and demand that the reforms be put through.

WOULD CHANGE ANTITRUST LAW

Wisconsin U. President Speaks to Convention of Lumbermen.

By United Press.
CHICAGO, Ill., June 1.—Declaring the Sherman Antitrust Law should be modified to permit business interests to co-operate and promote, not restrain, trade, President Charles R. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin was applauded long and loud at the opening session of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Convention here yesterday.

The address was declared particularly appropriate at this time, when business men in all lines of American trade are trying to have the new Federal Trade Relations Committee given authority to pass on co-operative contracts between business concerns.

They want the line drawn between advantageous co-operation and blighting monopoly. President Van Hise, who went before a committee of Congress recently and asked the amending of the antitrust law to permit the lumber manufacturers to curtail production, under federal regulation, to a point which would make it possible for them profitably to conserve their forest supplies for future generations, explained his views on this point. He declared that under conditions it might be possible for an industry to waste its entire future natural supply to meet a present demand.

Mayor William H. Thompson opened the convention. R. A. Long of Kansas City responded. The annual address of the president was then made by President R. H. Downman of New Orleans.

At the afternoon session Dr. Herman von Shrenk of St. Louis read a paper on tests of fire-resistant paints, in which he touched on the latest move of the nation's lumbermen, to find means for making the nation's lumber building material non-inflammable.

Here for College Commencement Mrs. J. S. Franklin and Mrs. Logan Allee of Eldon were guests of Christian College for commencement. Mrs. Allee is an alumna of the college.
